They generally presented a very respectable appearance, being clean and neatly dressed. Altogether they appear to be as fine a lot of immigrants of that nationality as ever has come here.

THE SOUTH SEAS.

Germany Takes Formal Possession of the Marshall Islands.

Mr. A. Frank Cooke received by the Surprise a letter via San Francisco from Mr. Emerson, agent of the Pacific Navigation Company at Jaluit, Marshall Islands. The letter is dated June 23rd and states that the German flying squadron was at Jaluit the latter part of May and the first part of June. "These islands," the writer goes on to say, "are now formally taken possession of by Germany and a government is established. Every establishment to pay $100 a year tax, every trader ten dollars a year, each white man five dollars poll tax. Every vessel doing business on the islands has to enter cargo at Jaluit, and is obliged to clear from Jaluit. No spirits, guns or ammunition, or other combustibles or explosives, are allowed to be sold to natives in the group."

Arrival of the "Surprise."

The steam schooner Surprise, which has been anxiously looked for during the last few days, arrived in port at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. A large crowd gathered on the Pacific Navigation Company's wharf to see the vessel and hear the news from the outside world. The Surprise is an auxiliary three-masted schooner of 120 tons measurement, 107 feet length of keel, 32 feet beam, and 8 feet 4 inches depth of hold. She sailed from San Francisco at four o'clock in the afternoon of the 9th inst., making the voyage in fifteen days. She experienced head winds and calms throughout the voyage, compelling her to steam the whole time. She comes consigned to Messrs. T. H. Davies & Co., bringing a general cargo of 230 tons burden. The Surprise was built in Port Ludlow, W. T., in the month of October, 1885, making her one year and eleven months old. On leaving San Francisco she had 25 tons of coal, and on arrival here, after steaming fifteen days, she had six tons left, having consumed nineteen tons of coal in that time. Captain Roberts is in command of the schooner and speaks well of her.

A Gorgeous Jewel.

Probably the most magnificent production of the jeweler's handicraft ever made in Honolulu is one shown our reporter at the establishment of Messrs. A. Wenner & Co., Fort street. It is a necklace for a lady whose name is not permitted to be divulged at present. The links are square-shaped with slightly concaved sides and of solid gold, and the lower half of the necklace is a double chain. There are over a hundred diamonds, besides several costly rubies and emeralds, set in the links. An ornament in the shape of a horse shoe, resplendent with diamonds, forms the central piece, to which is attached a glittering pendant. The cost of this splendid jewel will be somewhere between five thousand and eight thousand dollars. Such a rich and elaborate specimen of workmanship is highly creditable to the local establishment producing it, furnishing proof that in jewelry as in some other things our people may have as satisfactory work done at home as they can abroad.

Sunday Services.

The services at the Lyceum to-morrow will be as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock. Public worship at 11 o'clock, with preaching by Rev. E. C. Oggel, pastor of the Bethel Union Church. The Roman Catholic Cathedral will have high mass at 10 a. m., and benediction of the blessed sacrament at 4 p. m.

A man should never boast to his wife how skillful he is and how much superior to other men because he can shave himself. He is reasonably sure to gash his chin or his cheek the next minute if he does.

No, it is not hard to write funny paragraphs; all you have to do is to procure a pen, some paper and ink, and then sit down and write them as they occur to you. It is not the writing, but the occurring, that is hard.

"Doctor," said he, as he entered the office, "I don't know what the trouble is, but I can't sleep at night." "What's your business, my friend?" "I'm a plumber, sir." "Young man, you need a clergyman; I can't undertake to cure your conscience."

Russian Triumphs in Bulgaria.

Troublesome Rumors from India.

The Charleston Calamity.

Victory of the American Yacht.

The Eastern Question.

Prince Alexander has abdicated the throne of Bulgaria. He was advised to do so by Prince Bismarck. The event has produced genuine disappointment in England, and perhaps in Austria. In England nobody doubts that Russia has had Bismarck's support throughout and that Austria acquiesces though not willingly. Russia is not to occupy Bulgaria or to assume an ostensible protectorate over that unhappy country, but a Russian civil commissioner goes to Sophia as soon as Alexander leaves that city and a Russian officer takes charge of the Bulgarian army. Russia will have what she likes, power without responsibility. Probably Alexander, in the face of Russia and Germany, without the support of a single European power, with Bulgarian opinion divided, thanks to Russia's agents, had no choice but to retire. With him goes the last hope of Bulgarian independence. Bulgaria will become practically a Russian province. The experiment which England attempted of establishing independent nationalities in the East, and as a barrier to Russian aggression, has broken down. Russia apparently wins every point in the present game, and has a free hand for her future wishes. The Bulgarian population count for nothing in European diplomacy.

Prince Alexander, in his farewell address to his officers on September 7th, said, "If my departure is not forever, it is until the National Assembly of Bulgaria decides the question."

It was said in Constantinople that Turkish and Russian Commissioners would be appointed to form a provisional government to conduct Bulgarian affairs pending the election by the National Assembly of a new ruler. The Porte formally declared that Turkey would never consent to any proposal, contingent or otherwise, that Russia should occupy Bulgaria, Eastern Roumelia, or any part of Turkey. It also sent a note to the Powers praying them to prevent the foreign military occupation of Bulgaria.

Karageoragievitch, the Serbian pretender, has been called to St. Petersburg, and this has given rise to the report that the Czar intends him to occupy the vacant throne. The future union of the Balkan States under the Russian eagle is thus foreshadowed. The Russian Embassy in Constantinople wears a great air of triumph.

A despatch of September 8th announces the signing of the deed of abdication by Alexander, and his departure from Sophia. A compact mass of people witnessed his departure from the palace, and thousands lined the route taken by him through the town. The Prince stood up in his carriage, bowing to the people and saying "Good-by, my brethren." The populace were much affected. Tears sprang to many eyes, and hearty wishes were expressed for the Prince's speedy return. A manifesto was issued by Alexander prior to his departure, in which he says: "We, Alexander, Prince of Bulgaria, being convinced that our departure will contribute to Bulgaria's liberation, having received an assurance from the Czar that the independence, liberty and rights of our country shall remain intact, and that nobody shall interfere with its internal affairs, we inform our beloved people that we renounce the throne, wishing to prove how dear to us are the interests of Bulgaria, for which we are willing to sacrifice that which is more precious to us than life."

After expressing his affection for his subjects, and his heartfelt gratitude for their devotion, he says he will pray God to shield and prosper the country. He concludes by asking the people to obey the Regency and Ministry, to the end that order and peace may be preserved. Prince Alexander was accompanied by M. Stambuloff, and was to go direct to Darmstadt.

The London Standard urges England not to oppose whoever may be elected to succeed Prince Alexander. It continues as follows, "If Alexander's successor be a pro-Russian, he will the more quickly bring Austria to a full consciousness of what concerns her in Bulgaria, and force Germany to decide whether to sacrifice Austria to Russia or vice versa. Russia is the old man of the sea for Austria and Germany, and by their recent subservience they have got him tighter around their necks than ever."

UNITED STATES.

The Ruined City.

Charleston, S. C., had a slight shaking by earthquake on September 6th. What was most feared at that date was pestilence. With the entire population of the city camping out, effective sanitary measures were a problem not easy to solve. Defective sanitation in that climate, even with everybody housed, means death. Rations were being given to the sufferers, but no money. Contributions of $100,000 for relief had come from outside, and an aggregate of $200,000 was expected. The railroads were offering free passes to take people away, and about 500 were issued to white and colored in one day.

Queen Victoria sent a telegram of sympathy to the sufferers, to which President Cleveland sent an appropriate reply.

Professor McGee has been examining evidences of the earthquake over an area covering about 75 square miles in and around Charleston. The most active geysers were in the neighborhood of Ten Mile Hill, some of which spouted from eight to fifteen feet high. At the same locality the earth sunk in places two to three feet. The Professor's investigations seem to prove that the earthquake had no connection with volcanic action. There has been a considerable settling of the earth in Charleston, bringing into full view many houses in the suburbs which were not before visible from the city.

A gentleman in Atlanta, Ga., has a letter written five or six years ago by Rev. W. H. Harrison, a former chaplain of the Legislature, in which it was predicted that the South Atlantic coast would be visited by severe earthquakes in August, 1886, and that at no distant date thereafter the city of San Francisco would be totally destroyed. He alleged that his predictions were made on scientific calculations.

THE AMERICA CUP.

The Mayflower Wins the First Race.

The first race for the America Cup, in this year's contest, took place in New York bay on Sept. 7th, the result being a decided victory for the Boston sloop yacht Mayflower over the English cutter Galatea. With a steady breeze from the southward, permitting all to carry their light sails, the Galatea was beaten twelve minutes and forty seconds, actual time, or twelve minutes and two seconds, corrected time, the Mayflower having given her thirty eight seconds time allowance, according to the New York Yacht Club rules, under which the races are sailed. General Paine sailed the Mayflower with Joe Ellsworth as pilot, and Lieut. Henn the Galatea with Sam Gibson as pilot. The finish was the grandest marine spectacle ever seen in New York bay. Surrounded by nearly 5,000 steam and sailing craft the Mayflower came tearing along through the narrow path of water and crossed the finish line amid the firing of guns, the screeching of whistles and the waving of acres of bunting and handkerchiefs. The Galatea received as hearty a welcome when she arrived, and when the judges told Lieut. Henn that he was beaten by twelve minutes and two seconds, he laughed and shouted back, "I thought it was half an hour." The next race was to have been sailed on Sept. 9th, over a course twenty miles to windward or leeward, starting from the Sandy Hook lightship.

Miscellaneous.

Ex-President Arthur is in very reduced health at New London, Conn. Henry J. Christoph, one of the wealthiest private bankers of the West, committed suicide in Chicago, September 6th, by shooting.

The new Naval and War College, founded by Rear Admiral Stephen B. Luce, at Newport, R. I., was opened on September 6th.

Thirty-two West Point cadets are under arrest for disobeying the order of General Merritt, commandant, prohibiting the usual college rush.

Hiram Vickery has been sentenced to forty years in the California State Prison at Folsom, for burglary committed in Oakland.

Workingmen's Day was celebrated on September 6th in New York, Chicago, Boston, Baltimore and other cities, with monster processions and festivities. In Chicago the street parade numbered 30,000 or 35,000 men. One of the trucks in the line carried a twenty foot giant, stamping out cheap labor imaged in the figure of a Chinaman.

The captive Apaches have been ordered to be sent to Fort Marion, Florida.

Hamilton Busby, editor of the New York Turf, Field and Farm, has received a cablegram announcing that Beach would only row Hanlan on the Paramatta. Busby thinks it queer, when Beach's friends have been saying all summer that Hanlan was afraid to row, to have Beach, as soon as he finds Hanlan willing to meet him, declare he will only row in Australia.

Trouble in India.

A profound sensation has been caused in London, says a despatch of September 6th, by the announcement that anonymous proclamations are being circulated in the Punjab, calling on the natives to rise against the English. They are written in the vernacular of the country, and state among other things, that ex-Maharajah Dhuleep Sing, has joined the Russians. Dhuleep Sing it will be remembered, a few months ago solemnly renounced the Christian religion, which he had adopted on his arrival in England, and shaking the dust off his feet against Great Britain announced that he was about to return to the land of his father and revert to the worship of the Great Sutgado. Like the notorious Nana Sahib, his long residence in England has enabled him to be acquainted with many national weaknesses, and in the hands of Russia he may still prove a most dangerous foe to Great Britain.

The Paris Journal des Debats publishes a sensational report about the alleged uprising of Northern India against British rule and in favor of Russian invasion. The report says that a number of Indian princes have followed Dhuleep Sing's example in joining Russia and in exhorting the people to throw off the "hated English yoke." The journal says that great events are imminent in Central Asia.
